

PROPOSED REFORM
OF INTEREST HERE

State Trustees' Association Framed
Measure That Would Abolish Advisory Board.

REPEALS APPROPRIATION LAW

Bill Provides That Townships of the State Shall Be Divided According to Population.

The Indiana State Trustees' Association has just drafted a bill which will be presented to the coming legislature and if passed will be of interest here. According to the measure the 1,016 townships of the state will be divided into seven classes, similar to the classification of the cities and towns act, and provide for fixed salaries for township trustees for all classes except the seventh, a per diem salary being allowed the latter. The bill abolishes the Township Advisory Board, provides for the appointment of road supervisors by the trustees, the employment of office help in the larger townships, repeals the law requiring appropriations for public expenditures and gives the trustee the power to fix the tax levy, subject to appeal to the Board of County Commissioners.

The bill will be presented at the meeting of the trustees Dec. 6 to 8 in Indianapolis for final approval. Minor changes may be made, but in the main the bill will stand as drawn, it is said. The salaries to be paid trustees in the six classes of townships are not included in the present draft of the bill. The amounts are left blank and probably will not be written into the bill until near the time of the meeting of the State Legislature.

The new bill provides for the classification of the 1,016 townships of the state into seven classes, according to the population and the salary dependable upon the class into which the township falls. The last preceding census is to be the basis of determining the classification.

The abolishment of the Township Advisory Board, the township trustee, the township assessor and one justice of the peace to constitute the Township Board of Finance.

The repeal of the law requiring appropriations to be made for the expenditure of public funds during an ensuing year, the trustee being required to keep all funds separate, and being prohibited from transferring money from one fund to another.

The appointment of all road supervisors by the township trustee. The supervisors are now elected and, while being responsible to the township trustee, he has no power to remove incompetent men from office.

Fixing the tax levy is to be done by the trustee following notice of an estimate of township expenses, subject to appeal to the Board of County Commissioners on the objection of 10 per cent. of the property owners of the township. The decision of the county commissioners shall be final and the levy as agreed upon by them shall be certified to the county auditor and placed on the tax duplicate.

The purchase of additional supplies by the township trustee at the contract price without advertising for bids as now required.

Under provisions of the law now in force the trustee must handle more than twenty funds and useless book-keeping is thus required, it was thought. Among the several appropriations now made by the township advisory board before the beginning of the fiscal year are one for salary and office rent; one for road supervisors' salaries; one for books and stationery, one for printing, and one each for machinery, material, labor, repairs, fuel and supplies.

The township trustee is empowered to employ an attorney, who, it is provided, shall furnish to him legal advice whenever needed. Previous to the time of fixing the tax levy notice of his estimate of the succeeding year's expenses shall be published in at least two newspapers. In the event of objection to the proposed levy by not less than 10 per cent. of the taxpayers an appeal may be taken to the Board of County Commissioners, whose decision concerning the levy required shall be final.

All taxes for township purposes shall be levied and collected, the bill provides, against all the taxable property situated within the township and without the incorporated town or city.

Township trustee Charles Steinwedel stated that he believed that the new measure was a good one and thought it was right that a trustee should be given a salary according to the population of the township.

FLUE BURSTS AS FIREMAN
OPENED DOOR OF FIREBOX

Oscar Lewis Painfully Burned About
The Face in an Unusual Accident.

Oscar Lewis, of this city, a fireman on the B. & O.-S.W., met with a very unusual accident Friday morning. His engine was standing at Culloms, a station a short distance west of Cincinnati, and as he opened the door of the fire box to throw in some coal, a flue bursted and he was painfully burned with the hot water.

He left his engine as soon as possible and went to Cincinnati where he consulted a physician. His injuries are very painful, and it will be some time before he can return to his work.

While it is not so unusual for the flues in the engines to burst, it is quite an uncommon occurrence for them to give away just as the door to the fire box is opened. Within the past year several serious accidents have occurred to engine men from bursting flues.

WEATHER MAN RIGHT

In His Prediction That There Would Be Snow Today.

The weather man struck the right trail yesterday when he predicted snow for today. The snow flakes began to fall this morning and kept up their work all day until the ground was white. The trackmen on the Indianapolis & Louisville line were at work this afternoon clearing the snow from the rails around the sharp curves, so that the cars would have less trouble in making the scheduled time.

There has been no trouble reported from any of the telephone lines throughout the county and under all probability the snow will not be heavy enough to damage the service. The first snow this year fell on October 28, and many people believe that this is a good indication that there will be twenty-eight snows during the winter.

Change of Venue Granted.

Judge Wickens of the Bartholomew Circuit Court Friday granted Mrs. Ella Ruddick's second request for a change of venue, to Franklin, Johnson county in the case of Harry W. Godfrey vs. Mrs. Ruddick to break his late wife's will which left nearly all of the estate to her sister, Mrs. Ruddick.

Mr. Godfrey and his attorneys were perfectly willing to have the case tried at Columbus.

Mr. Godfrey is well known in Seymour, he having lived here for twenty seven years previous to moving to Columbus about six years ago and no doubt he would have been glad if the case had been sent to this county for trial among his old acquaintances.

Christmas Turkeys.

We are now buying turkeys for Christmas market. Farmers who sell turkeys now will be sure of high prices. Later in December prices may be lower, as more turkeys are held for the Christmas market than usual. Other poultry is more plentiful this year than ever before, which is a strong factor against extremely high prices for Christmas turkeys.

HUNTER IS FOUND

Layman Brooks Arrested on White
Creek by Game Wardens, F. M.
Ehlers and Edw. Buckley.

TOTAL FINE AND COSTS $32.50

Wardens Give Warning That All
Hunters Should Follow Provisions of Game Laws.

The game wardens opened their "hunting season" in Jackson county Friday afternoon when they arrested Layman Brooks for hunting without a license. This is the first arrest that has been made upon this charge this winter, and Brooks is positively convinced that hunting without first having procured a license is pretty expensive economy as it cost him a total of $32.50.

The game wardens, F. M. Ehlers and Edward Buckley, have been in this vicinity for several days, and have been informed of several violations of law. Friday they drove to White Creek, with their dogs and guns under the pretext of hunting when they arrested Brooks. When Ehlers asked Brooks for his license the latter wanted to know upon what authority he made his request and when shown the badge, replied that he had left the license at the home of his uncle a short distance away.

The game wardens became suspicious about the license and told Brooks they would take him to the house where he could get the license. When they arrived at the place, Brooks confessed that he did not have the required license, and put up a fight for his liberty, Ehlers, however, had retained his hold upon his man, and after a little fight put him in the buggy which they had driven out, and brought him to the city. It is also said that some of the friends of Brooks put up a little fight in his behalf but that warden Buckley was able to handle them.

Brooks was taken before justice of peace John Congdon, where he pleaded guilty as charged. His fine and costs amounted to $32.50 which were stayed.

The game wardens declare that they are making a complete search for all violators of the game laws, and that it would be advisable for all hunters to follow the law in all respects. They assert that especial attention is being given to the law requiring the license and that all violations will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

PRAYED TO COURT

To Be Allowed To Go Home To His Children.

"Please, Mr. Judge, let me go home to my children and I will promise that I will never drink another drop as long as I live," prayed Joseph Smock, colored, on his knees this morning to Justice Kinney, after having pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication in Justice Kinney's court. The supplication, however, failed to soften the heart of the court and he sentenced the prisoner to ten days in the county jail.

The negro was arrested and jailed by Sheriff Cox Thursday night. He said he had been employed at Indianapolis, but that he was on his way to his home in Seymour. When he was searched a pint of whiskey, the regulation razor and numerous other articles were found on his person.

He claimed to have been robbed of $25 and a suit case in Columbus while intoxicated.—Columbus Republican.

Repairs of The Majestic.

J. C. Howell, manager of the Majestic, has completed several repairs at the theatre. For some time there has been considerable trouble with the furnace, but two new furnaces have been placed in position, and it is believed there will be no further trouble from this source. Several other improvements have been made for the convenience and comfort of the patrons of the house.

A number of good attractions have been billed for the winter, among them some of the strongest and most popular plays on the road. They are billed directly from Chicago, and in this manner the local house is enabled to secure the best plays that can be had for cities of this class. Mr. Howell has booked several attractions with which he is especially pleased and knows that they will be of interest to the theatre-going people of Seymour. Before the season is over he desires to make a record for the house in that a greater number of good plays appeared here than ever before in one season.

CONGRESS WILL ACHIEVE LITTLE

Short Session's Legislation Expected to Consist of Appropriation Bills' Passage and Conflict Over Ballinger and Lorimer Committee Reports.

Sparring for Position in Next Session and Strengthening Party Lines for Presidential Conflict of 1912 to Occupy Most of Lawmaking Period.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THE American people take little interest ordinarily in short sessions of congress. One reason is that short sessions usually do little except pass appropriation bills. Another and even more potent cause of popular indifference is that the last session of the old congress always meets after the election of the new congress, and if, as in the present case, there is a change of party the apathy of the people to the fate of the former regime may be tinged with actual hostility. It is a case not of the rising but of the setting sun.

The motto of each short session should be, "Morituri te salutamus" ("We who are about to die salute you.") That is especially applicable now since the holocaust that struck the present membership was fearful and widespread. Almost every other standpatter has met his Waterloo. The insurgent membership has jumped up to more than fifty and the Democratic to about 225, leaving only a trifle more than 100 standpatters all told. "How have the mighty fallen!" is a bromide, but the standpatter is also a bromide, so the phrase fits his case.

Many Lawmakers Passing.

The chief interest in the short session will be the mournful one of looking for the last time on many departing statesmen. In the senate the passing of Aldrich and Hale will leave the insurgents with the lonesome feeling that they no longer have anybody against whom to insurg. A distinguished company will accompany these leaders on the journey to the outside of the breastworks. The delightful mutton chops of Chauncey M. Depew will no longer shine; John Kean will cease to object; Nathan Bay Scott will no more irradiate the chamber with his presence; the flowing mane of Charles Dick will disappear from the offing; Tom Carter's chin whisker will cease to wigwag in debate; Burkett will buy an automobile and enjoy life—says so himself; Beveridge will no longer dazzle; and Warner, Flint, Fyles and Burrows will join the "ex" club. On the Democratic side there will be fewer prospective gaps. Money, the minority leader, is serving his last term, and Talliaferro will also step aside.

Death will have taken some familiar faces from the senate, a notable orator on each side being among the missing. The loss of Dolliver of Iowa will be felt by the whole body. He was in the prime of his powers and perhaps was the most effective debater in the chamber. Daniel also was an orator in his day, though he had spoken little of recent years.

In the case of a successor to the late Senator McEnery the senate will face a peculiar complication. The Louisiana legislature was in session at the time of McEnery's death and elected Governor Sanders to the vacancy. After the legislature adjourned Sanders declined and appointed Colonel Thornton. Constitutional lawyers hold that this is irregular, since a governor can only fill a senatorial vacancy that occurs when the legislature is not in session. The general view is, however, that the senate will accept Thornton's credentials and overlook the technical irregularity.

New Senators Are Many.

There will be several new faces in the senate. There will be two former southern governors—Swanson of Virginia in place of Daniel and Terrell of Georgia as the successor of Clay. From Iowa will come Lafe Young, the newspaper man, who the progressives say will hardly have time to warm his seat before the legislature places an insurgent there. When the North Dakota legislature gets together Asie J. Gronna, another insurgent, will take the place of Senator Purcell.

There will be several senators on the anxious seat during the short session, uneasy as to what their legislatures will do. Lodge of Massachusetts faces a possible insurgency of enough Republican legislators to defeat him; Bulkeley of Connecticut will probably lose to former Governor McLean; Oliver of Pennsylvania is by no means sure of going back, and Frazier of Tennessee is not yet a certainty owing to unsettled political conditions in his state.

Of the thirty outgoing senators twenty-four are Republicans, and twenty-one of these are regulars. It is a startling fact that among these twenty-one twelve have already fallen by the wayside and three more are in peril.

Republicans Lose Heavily.

In the house end the slaughter has been almost as marked. There will be something like 119 changes in the chamber, or nearly one-third of the body. The vast majority of those who have been displaced are regular Republicans. Out of something like 185 regulars all told—the vote varied from time to time—83 have been retired for one reason or another. A few were succeeded by men of their own political stripe. The vast majority were beaten in the primaries by progressives or in the election by Democrats. Perhaps the most conspicuous house member who will be absent from the next congress is James A. Tawney, the Minnesota blacksmith, who forges appropriation bills with a sledgehammer. Other conspicuous standpatters who are serving their last term are Boutell and Lowden of Illinois, Hull of Iowa, Scott and Calderhead of Kansas, Allen of Maine, Mudd of Maryland, Washburn of Massachusetts, Denby, Gardner and Diekmann of Michigan, Coudrey and Elvins of Missouri, Parker of New Jersey, Cocks, Parsons, Olcott, Bennet, Fassett and Alexander of New York, Morehead of North Carolina, Goebel, Keifer and Cole of Ohio, Ellis of Oregon, Foulkrod and Wanger of Pennsylvania, Capron of Rhode Island and Hubbard and Gaines of West Virginia.

Two conspicuous insurgents who will go out with this congress are Fish of New York and Fowler of New Jersey. Three more house insurgents will also be out, since they have been promoted to the senate—Townsend of Michigan, Gronna of North Dakota and Poindeexter of Washington.

Two members of the present house go to governorships, one a Democrat and the other a Republican—Foss of Massachusetts and Tener of Pennsylvania.

Democratic Shift Unimportant.

The Democratic changes are few and unimportant. Livingston and Howard of Georgia go out for having support-matter of fortifying the Panama canal is sure to come up in the appropriation bills, and Tawney has stated that he will fight it.

There is now a plan on foot to have the reapportionment made by the present congress. This the Democrats will oppose, contending that it should be left for them. If the Republicans decide to push it through, however, the Democrats will be powerless unless they talk it to death.

The population of the country has grown so enormously in the last decade that the membership of the house will be measurably increased unless the basis of representation is changed. There is complaint that the house is already too large, and a determined fight will be made against an increase. On the other hand, each state dislikes to lose any of its representatives, and many of them would do so if the house were left at its present size. This question alone would make a fight that might consume much of the time of the short session, and for that reason and because of Democratic opposition to its present consideration it may go over.

Monetary Report Possible.

There is a possibility that the Aldrich monetary commission may report to this session, but even if it should do so there will not be time to consider its recommendations. It is morally certain that Mr. Aldrich's chief idea will be a central bank of issue, and it is just as certain that the Democrats and most of the progressives will fight this to the death.

The report of the Ballinger investigating committee will go before the short session and is certain to occasion a fight. Even if a majority of the committee exonerates Ballinger his fate is uncertain in the house, the probability being that the old Democratic-insurgent coalition would refuse to approve such a finding.

The committee investigating the Gore charges as to alleged Indian frauds will report to the present congress, as will also the Lorimer committee. Both of these reports will probably occasion hot debate.

With all of these matters before it and with the appropriation bills to get out of the way it is scarcely possible

DIAZ CONTROLS WITH FIRM HAND

The Jails of Mexico Overcrowded With Rebels.

ARE THOROUGHLY WHIPPED

Miscarriage of the Plans of the Revolutionary Leaders Threw the Whole Movement Into Confusion and Placed the Leaders and Active Participants at the Mercy of Strong Government.

City of Mexico, Dec. 3.—The leaders and plotters of the revolutionary movement are being rapidly rounded up. In many towns the jails are overcrowded with the political prisoners. One of the most important captures is Jan B. Vaca, who is alleged to have laid the plans for the attacks on Parral and other places in that region. Vaca has been placed in prison here. He is said to have been one of Madero's right-hand men, and to have laid plans for attacks on towns all over the republic, but in person supervised the planning of the raid on Parral.

After the plans miscarried the rebels were thoroughly whipped. Vaca fled southward through Durango up to the capital of the state of Jalisco, where he was captured by secret service men.

Rafael Quiroz Cardenas, another important suspect, and J. Socorro Cervantes, a scarcely less valuable capture, have arrived under guard from Jiquilpan, Michoacan.

Cardenas is said to have been the leading anti-electionist of the Michoacan town, and to have been tireless in his machinations against the existing government. He is alleged to have formulated plots and to have been on the point of carrying them out with the aid of a number of other malcontents when arrested. The attack on Jiquilpan apparently was frustrated by the capture of this man and of his companion and second, Cervantes.

Cervantes himself is charged with being no small figure among the Madero supporters and plotters against Mexico. His work extended beyond paper, according to the charges, and he was actually involved in some of the rioting which has marked the past three weeks in various towns of the republic. Rurales in conflict with four men and a boy whom they surprised cutting telegraph wires in Colonia Aldana, near Atzacapotzalco, killed the boy and forced the four men to fly.

El Paladin, an anti-electionist organ, currently reported to have been financed by Madero and his supporters, has been closed by order of the court. Ramon Alvarez Soto, editor and proprietor of the paper, has been held under charges of fomenting trouble through his newspaper. The offices of El Paladin were searched by the authorities and a number of copies containing articles calculated to inflame the more ignorant classes of the people against the government have been confiscated.

Two bandits were shot dead in a fierce hand-to-hand battle with the employees of the Hacienda Santa Rosa, near Puebla. The mounted bandits, heavily armed, attacked the hacienda about midnight and the manager of the ranch immediately armed his employees and led them in the defense. So effective was their fire that the bandits were forced to flee, leaving two of their number dead.

IMPOSING FUNERAL

Was Given the Late President of the Chilean Republic.

Berlin, Dec. 3.—The kaiser arranged a remarkably impressive funeral yesterday for Pedro Montt, the late president of Chile, who died here last August. The body had been lying in a vault in St. Hedwig's Catholic church since the death of the former president, awaiting the arrival of the Chilean warship Blanca Encalada. The body was conveyed from St. Hedwig's church to the railway station with an imposing escort of 5,000 troops. The massed bands and muffled drums played Chopin's funeral march during the entire march. The hearse was followed by a delegation of high officers of the German army and navy, the members of the Chilean legation and several hundred Chileans resident here.

The Encalada with the remains aboard sailed from Bremen today. Mr. Hill the American ambassador, and the members of the foreign diplomatic corps attended the funeral service. All the flags on the government buildings in Berlin were at half mast.

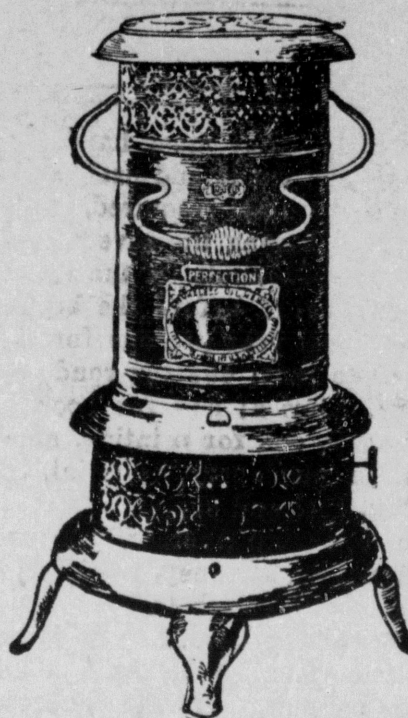

Caleb Powers Backs Howard.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 3.—Jim Howard, who was convicted several times and pardoned by Governor Willson as being the principal in the murder of Governor William Goebel, will make the race for the state senate and will be backed by Congressman-Elect Caleb Powers.

They Fought to the Death.

Guanajuato, Mexico, Dec. 3.—Charles Monroe, an American, who came here from Oakland, Cal., a few years ago, fought a duel with Jose Sooma near the Union Hotel. Both men were killed. They had been personal enemies for some time.

A Fashion Chat on Young Girls Frocks.

Furnished by Pictorial Review

222 West 39th Street, New York City

Styles for young girls are a replica of these for grown-ups, but some of the prevailing fashions seem to be special favorites of the girls. One of these is the dress that is all in one piece; another is the skirt that has a deep yoke or gored upper part and the lower part gathered or plaited. Of course, only very soft material is gathered.

The most attractive garments that girls wear are the ones that suit the occasion and the wearer with a suggestion of youthfulness in them. The designs on this page are simple in line and are made up with just enough decoration to give a stylish appearance. At this season the young girl's outfit is a problem for the mother to solve unaided; but by consulting the Pictorial Review Fashions, many charming girlish frocks suggest exactly what is needed, from the smart new double-breasted jacket and skirt and the slender simple lines of the school dress to the pretty dance frock.

PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3657 is a charming afternoon frock and its style is the very latest. The combination of two different materials tends to give it a decided distinction as well as grace, and simplicity marks the whole costume. Dark blue challi with a small white dot would be a suitable material for this dress and dark blue messaline could be used for the upper part of the waist and for the band at the bottom of the skirt. Persian banding having a dark blue background with a dull red tone in it would make a very effective trimming. This costume is made with a lining and the outer sleeves are combined with the body. It is perforated for low neck and has an attached five-gored gathered skirt perforated at flounce depth for contrasting material. Sizes 14, 16 and 18 years. Size 16, as illustrated, requires 2 yards 44 inch material and 3½ yards of 36 inch contrasting material.

This dress would look still prettier if made of dark blue voile over a silk lining with the upper part of the body and the band, of messaline or taffeta.

The sailor blouse is distinctly girlish and is so comfortable for exercise that its popularity is not surprising. Sailor dresses may have plain gored skirts or plaited ones, both are stylish.

The middie blouse shown in PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 355 consists of a blouse to be slipped on over the head, having shield, sailor collar and one-seam sleeves and a seven-gored side-plaited skirt. This dress can be made of either linen or serge. If made of linen the collar and cuffs could be of different colored linen and the edge of the pocket lined with same. If made of serge, either a linen collar can be worn or one made of a different colored serge trimmed with white or black braid. Dark blue serge is the favorite material for such a costume trimmed with a becoming tone of red. Its sizes are 14, 16 and 18 years. Size 16 requires 6 yards of 48-inch material.

One piece dresses buttoned or hooked on the side are popular for school wear. The skirts cut in circular style are much favored while plaited skirts are also in vogue. Circular skirts look much better than the plaited ones, with tailored suits that have short coats. By the way, the short coat will be the height of fashion in that line this coming season and they are very chic and decidedly French in appearance. The black and white tailor-made with a brilliant touch of red is stunning for young girls and there are many pretty styles that will set off this combination to the best advantage.

The price of the patterns illustrated is 15 cents each number.

BELMONT IS DIRECTLY NAMED

New York Legislative Investigating Committee Hears From a Source High Up in Racing Circles That August Belmont Was Responsible For Disbursement of Large Sums While Racing Bills Were Pending.

New York, Dec. 3.—Frank K. Sturgis, a banker of 36 Broad street, who is secretary and treasurer of the Jockey club, and has been, since it was formed in 1894, a trustee of the Westchester Racing association (Belmont Park), and a trustee of the Turf and Field club, testifying before the legislative committee in the aldermen's chamber of the city hall, placed the responsibility for disbursing various sums amounting to more than $300,000, upon August Belmont. Mr. Sturgis gave this testimony with a certain air of what looked like satisfaction in doing so, and whenever he mentioned August Belmont as the one responsible for these disbursements he pronounced the name with a crisp precision. Mr. Sturgis, florid of complexion, with carefully trimmed iron-gray hair and mustache, in fresh and fashionable apparel, was on the witness stand about one hour.

Among the interesting revelations made by Mr. Sturgis after he had identified payments of $40,290 made by Mr. Belmont to Edward P. Coyne in 1907, made up of two payments only two months apart, was that Mr. Coyne had been recommended to Mr. Belmont and the racing associations as an attorney by James W. Wadsworth.

"The elder Wadsworth," a member of the committee gasped.

"No, the junior Wadsworth," responded Mr. Sturgis, "the speaker of the assembly."

It later developed that the legal services Mr. Coyne performed for his $40,000 fee had to do with the defeat of a bill in the legislature in 1907, known as the Cassidy bill, which if it had passed, would have increased the state's assessments of the racing association's gross receipts from 5 per cent to 10 per cent. Mr. Coyne was also legally active in the campaign in the following year against the Agnew-Hart bills, generally called the anti-racetrack bills.

Only once Mr. Sturgis hesitated in making reply to a question. Counsel Kresel had asked about an entry of $12,500 on Nov. 2, 1908, to one of the three legal expense accounts in the Jockey club ledger. The witness looked at the entry for a moment puzzled, and then looked up and said: "Is Mr. Daingerfield here?"

Mr. Daingerfield is Mr. Sturgis's assistant secretary in the Jockey club. Mr. Kresel promptly said: "I'll call Mr. Daingerfield presently. We will proceed, please"; and Mr. Sturgis proceeded. The treasurer's testimony was supplemented and in points elaborated when Daingerfield was examined.

Another witness was John J. Evans, treasurer of the Metropolitan Turf association. He was a reluctant witness but interesting.

"And what did your association do pending the passage of the Agnew-Hart bill?" Mr. Kresel asked.

"Kept quiet," responded the witness.

SLEW ASSAILANT

Chicago Garment Workers' Strike Marked by Tragedy.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Rendered desperate by frequent and vicious attacks upon women and girls by striking garment workers' pickets, Anthony Yacullo, employed by the Royal Tailoring company, last evening shot and instantly killed Valentina Rumevykas, a union picket, while he was protecting two Italian children from Rumevykas and two other pickets who attacked him. Yacullo was escorting to their homes the boy and girl when the pickets set upon him and knocked him down. While they were kicking him Yacullo managed to draw his revolver and shot Rumevykas. The other two fled. The pickets had beaten girls in a shocking manner and Yacullo said he feared he would be kicked to death.

KEEPS UP HIS OLD FOOTBALL RECORD

Capt. Humphreys Again Demonstrates Fighting Qualities.

New York, Dec. 3.—The capture of four of the outlaws who a month ago massacred some American planters at Davao gulf, in Mindanao, is reported in a cable dispatch received in this city from Zamboanga, in the Philippines. Three outlaws were killed in the fight in which these were captured, one of the killed being a datto.

The capture of the outlaws, according to this cable dispatch, was made by Captain C. B. Humphreys of the Twenty-second infantry. Captain Humphreys was a member of the West Point football team in 1896 and 1897, and has distinguished himself by his fighting qualities on several occasions. One of these was in December, 1908, when he was on a train in Colorado. With the assistance of a negro he knocked out four prize fighters, a trainer and a rubber and held at bay fifty other men.

The party had just come from a prize fight and had made remarks about some women in the car. As a result of the fight the captain was badly disfigured and disabled, both of his hands having been broken. He was in the hospital several weeks.

A Fantastic Duty.

A fantastic duty falls every fifth year to the lot of the mayor of St. Ives, in Cornwall, England, when the bequests left by John Knill, a former collector of customs, are distributed. Accompanied by the borough mace bearers, he has to walk in procession with ten maids dressed in white and ten old widows, to the monument known as Knill's steeple, round which, to the strains of a fiddle, he and his strangely assorted companions are required to step a measure. Then the bequests, which include £5 for the best knitter of fishing nets and £5 for the best curer and packer of fish, are distributed. After this the trustees adjourn to dinner.

If you are suffering from biliousness, constipation, indigestion, chronic headache, invest one cent in a postal card, send to Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa, with your name and address plainly on the back, and they will forward you a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. A Hyena's Tragedy.

A story of Mr. Roosevelt's hunting as told in "African Game Trails": "As we came toward one carcass (of an elephant) a hyena raised its head seemingly from beside the elephant's belly, and I brained it with the little Springfield. On walking up it appeared that I need not have shot at all. The hyena, which was swollen with elephant meat, had got inside the huge body and had then bitten a hole through the abdominal wall of tough muscle and thrust his head through. The wedge shaped head had slipped through the hole all right, but the muscle had then contracted, and the hyena was fairly caught, with its body inside the elephant's belly and its head thrust out through the hole."

The greatest danger from influenza is of its resulting in pneumonia. This can be obviated by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as it not only cures influenza, but counteracts any tendency of the disease towards pneumonia. Sold by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

He Stayed Away.

A popular actress who was discussing the supreme importance of dress was reminded of a story.

"I know," she said, "of only one occasion where dress wasn't the most important thing of all. It was at a Saratoga hotel, and we had arranged, a certain small set of us, to have a distinctly smart ball after the races. There was an Englishman at the hotel—one of those Englishmen who don't know their place—and the morning of the ball he came to me and said:

"I hear there's a ball tonight. Isn't it jolly? But, I say, is fancy dress de rigueur?"

"No, Lord Lachon," said I, "fancy dress is not de rigueur, but an invitation is."—Washington Post

A sprained ankle will usually disable the injured person for three or four weeks. This is due to lack of proper treatment. When Chamberlain's Liniment is applied a cure may be effected in three or four days. This liniment is one of the best and most remarkable preparations in use. Sold by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

Coming Out.

Next week fashionable Flora was "coming out," and her proud mamma was so excited over the fact that she proclaimed it, metaphorically speaking, from the houseposts.

Even the charwoman had it.

"You will be pleased to hear, Mrs. Moore," said proud mamma, "that Flora 'comes out' next week."

"Well, mum," replied the worthy washer, "I am pleased. An' so does my husband! How long did Miss Flora get? William got six months!"—London Scraps

The peculiar properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have been thoroughly tested during epidemics of influenza, and when it was taken in time we have not heard of a single case of pneumonia. Sold by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

"The English aristocrat is very proud of his lineage, but not nearly so proud as the German," said a much traveled man. "A German once fell from a Hamburg-American liner into the sea, and a sailor, seeing him disappear with a splash, shouted:

"Man overboard!"

"The German as soon as he came up yelled haughtily to the sailor: "What do you mean with your 'man overboard'? Graf Hermann von Finkensteln, Duke of Suabia and Prince of the Holy Roman Empire, is overboard!"

BACTERIA FIGHT SHOWN BY FILM

Scientists See Moving Picture
Battle For Human Life.

DOCTOR TURNS THE SCALE.

Phagocytes, Defenders of Health, Nearly Overwhelmed by Spirochaetae When Medical Aid Intervenes and Victim Is Saved—Even Cold In Head Starts Similar Battles.

One of the most interesting and instructive cinematograph shows ever witnessed, in the shape of a fierce battle between an army of phagocytes and several million spirochaetae, was given in London recently by Dr. C. Levaditi of the Pasteur institute, Paris, before the Royal Institute of Public Health.

The phagocytes, which are the defenders of the human body, were seen in the living pictures fighting against the spirochaetae, which are the bacteria of a malignant disease. These cinematograph films, which are said to be among the most marvelous ever shown, illustrated the bacterial warfare which takes place inside the human body, and excitement was added to the contest owing to the fact that the audience knew that victory for the spirochaetae meant death to the human victim.

Destroyers Force Fighting.

In the first few pictures the phagocytes had rather a bad time of it in their battle with the invaders, and, like a general commanding his forces, Dr. Levaditi cried, "See—they weaken!" following with his pointer the combatants appearing on the screen, like weird creatures conjured up in a nightmare. Again, still more tragically as a phagocyte fell outnumbered before a force of horrid shaped bacteria, he cried, "See—it is dead!"

The defenders, however, put up a great fight. Dead spirochaetae lay all round them, but still the phagocytes were being gradually outnumbered and crushed till there were signs of reinforcements.

The doctor had come to their aid. In the moment of victory the spirochaetae received a check. With their vast numbers and the variety of their attack, such as sharp, fang-like teeth, pinchers and pointed, dagger shaped tongues, they were too much for the phagocytes alone, but with the arrival of medical aid to stimulate the guardians of the patient's body they were demolished.

Doctor Insures Victory.

Slowly at first the wriggling things wriggled less. They grew tired; they weakened; they strove in vain to release themselves from the grip of the reviving phagocytes; they died.

This is the sort of fight which is going on daily, explained Dr. Levaditi, in the bodies of human beings, the fierceness of the fight depending on the malignity of the opposing bacteria. From a cold in the head upward the various human ailments entail a fight by the phagocytes in defense of their home, and the problem of the doctor is to discover the best food for the health soldier, according to the nature of the battle it has to wage.

MICE PLAGUE ROUTS FARMERS

Cape Breton's Grain and Potatoes Destroyed by Rodents.

A district twenty miles beyond Chelcamp, in the far northwest of Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, has a terrific plague of mice. The whole country swarms with the destructive creatures. The mice have burrowed underground and excavated a network of subterranean roads.

They began their destructive work on the hay crop, cutting it as it stood in the fields. When that was stored they attacked the grain, and the forty farmers there have saved only seven bushels. They attacked the potatoes, and the diggers on opening up the drills find little more than the stem of the larger potatoes left in the ground. The mice have carried their work of destruction to the woods and are stripping the bark from the saplings, and now they are entering houses, cutting their way through the walls and threatening to destroy clothes and household furniture.

No remedy is in sight. The people have been digging pits to entrap them, but in spite of myriads destroyed in this way there seems to be no abatement of the plague. The farmers are afraid to use poison for fear of polluting the streams and wells from which their cattle derive their supply of water.

A FASHION CHAT ON FASHIONABLE WAIST DESIGNS

Furnished by Pictorial Review

222 West 39th Street, New York City

The correct waist for the tailored suit has come to be as important as the suit itself. A clever woman can make a smart up-to-date coat suit answer for two if she wisely plans and provides her waists to wear it. For instance, a blue suit, whether of broadcloth, serge or rough effect, will be extra smart if she has a tailored waist the same color; the waist may be of messaline, taffeta, moire or mohair, either of solid color or with a hair line stripe or dot. It can be worn with a stylish jabot and collar or stock and the outfit is just the thing—for morning shopping or general street wear. She will also have a dressy waist to wear with the same suit; it also matches in color, mainly, but may have considerable contrast introduced in the way of lace yoke, collar and undersleeves, embroidery in another color or when the Persian effects are used the ground of the silk should match the suit, and bands of solid color relieve the mass of color. Again the figured silk may be entirely covered with blue chiffon, marquisette or voile nion. Such a waist is worth many times its cost when visiting or when the wearer meets her friends for matinee or afternoon tea. A bit of colored embroidery on the wash shirt waist is very fashionable, and so are the frills and jabots with colored scallops and edges.

The tailored silk waist has a front or side closing this season more frequently than has been the case for some time, but the back closing is still preferred by many. It is usually becoming to the figure and allows any style or kind of elaboration for the front.

Satin striped marquisette is excellent for a dressy waist and is especially effective when it is printed in the Persian figures as illustrated in PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3664. As the marquisette is rich in figure and color effects it is worn over a white net guimpe which has a princess lace collar and undersleeves. The guimpe is not included in the pattern but the overblouse may be tacked in place over it after they are made. The body and sleeves are in one without a seam on the shoulder. This design is also adaptable to silk and cotton, Japanese and Indian print squares, fancy or plain silks, and all the veiling materials may be used over Paisley or Persian silks or the latter may be used alone. The blouse is also very effective in all-over Irish lace or made of wide white insertion put together. Pattern sizes are 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure and size 36 requires 1 1/2 yards of 40-inch material.

The price of this pattern including cutting and construction guides is 15c.

PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3647 is a charming model for a silk waist. Its style is excellent and it has a decidedly sporty appearance. Its sizes are 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure and a medium size requires 3/4 yards of 27-inch material. Pattern, 15c.

The handsome blouse pictured in PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3649 shows a smart manipulation of the Persian silk material. The material is trimming in itself and the dainty frill at the neck adds to its beauty. Its sizes are 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure and the price of pattern is 15c.

From the present indications it appears that very few of the present powers of the speaker of the lower house of congress will be taken away from the democratic speaker. The democrats made a great stir about the "czar reigns" but now that they are in power they are somewhat reluctant about changing very materially the present rules. For the sake of appearance the rules will doubtless be modified to some extent, but the principal rules will not be changed. The democrats want all the power and authority they can get and are going to see that none of the appointments get away from them.

BREWERY AGENT

Has No Right to Sell In Dry Territory.

Judge Jordan of the Indiana supreme court decided in a case appealed from the Dekalb circuit court that the selling of liquor can not be legally made in dry territory by taking a customer's order for liquor to be delivered through an agent.

The supreme court affirmed the decision of the DeKalb court, which found George Chondel, agent of the Delhi brewing company, Defiance, O., guilty of retailing liquor in dry territory and in selling without a license. As agent for the company Chondel brought into the dry territory town of Garret a car containing 250 cases of beer, six of which cases were consigned to Herman Newman.

The evidence was that Chondel kept the liquor in an ice house and doled it out in retail quantities to his customers and received pay in small amounts every now and then. This was held retailing. Judge Jordan said:

"It is immaterial whether the appellant (Chondel) made the sale at Garret as agent of the brewing company or on his own account. Upon either view he would be guilty of selling intoxicating liquor as an unlicensed dealer. If he consummated the sale of the beer as agent by actually delivering the beer to Herman Newman then he would be guilty of the offense charged."

Widows Are Cheap In India.

In India a man often remains unmarried longer than he would desire simply because he cannot afford to pay the sum the father of a desirable daughter demands of his would be son-in-law. Widows, however, are cheap, and a wily father who finds his daughter is getting on in years while suitors tarry takes advantage of this fact. He marries his girl to a bunch of flowers, which he then throws into a well. Thus the lady becomes technically a widow, and as such she is a bargain in the marriage market. Thus the flower widow is secured as a wife by a suitor who would not have dared offered a small sum for her before her so called marriage.

Discounted.

"Papa," said the diminutive daughter of a New York manufacturer, "if I bring your slippers to you every night you come home, will you give me 5 cents a week that I can have to spend?"

"Yes, Catherine," her father replied, feeling that such an arrangement would teach her a few principles of regularity and thoughtfulness.

"Well, then, papa, I thought of this a long time ago, so I think you owe me about 15 cents by this time."—New York Times.

Catarrh of the Stomach.

Robust and Strong--Splendid Appetite.

Mrs. E. West, 137 Main St., Menasha, Wis., writes:

"We have used Peruna in our family for a number of years and when I say that it is a fine medicine for catarrh and colds, I know what I am talking about.

"I have taken it every Spring and Fall for four years, and I find that it keeps me robust, strong, with splendid appetite, and free from any illness.

"A few years ago it cured me of catarrh of the stomach, which the doctors had pronounced incurable.

"I am very much pleased with Peruna."

Bowels and Stomach.

Miss Mary Jones, 7918 Reynolds Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I can recommend Peruna as a good medicine for chronic catarrh of the bowels and stomach. I have been troubled severely with it for over three years.

"One year ago I began to take Peruna, the wonderful tonic for women, and I noticed a wonderful improvement at once. I took six bottles in succession and I always have it on hand to take some now and then when my cough is bad.

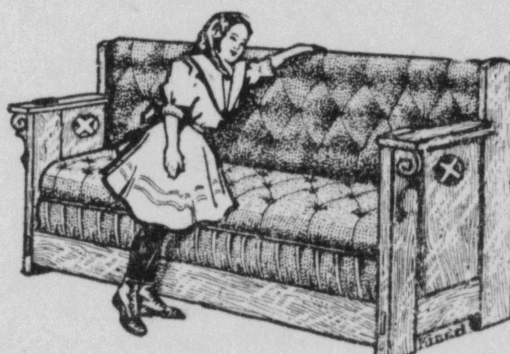

"Words cannot express my praise for your tonic. I weighed only ninety pounds before taking Peruna, now one hundred nineteen pounds."

Catarrh of Internal Organs.

Mrs. B. H. Jackson, R. F. D. 5, Newnan, Ga., writes: "I have had catarrh of the internal organs for more than a year. I tried other medicines without any benefit.

"I was persuaded to give Peruna a trial, and the first bottle proved a god send, and after taking ten bottles I have received a permanent cure."

GOLDSBORO HEARD FROM

A Lady Who Lives in Goldsboro Joins in the Chorus of Praise for Cardui, The Woman's Tonic.

Goldsboro, N. C.—"A physician treated me for many distressing symptoms," writes Mrs. Etta A. Smith, "but gave me no relief."

"I suffered with neuralgia around the heart and was troubled at times with my head. I had pain in my left side, bowels, left thigh, shoulders and arms."

"After taking Cardui, I am now well and can recommend it to other suffering women."

Just such doubtful symptoms, as those from which Mrs. Smith suffered, are the ones for which it will pay you to take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

It is at such times, when there is nothing to show, for certain, the real cause of the trouble, that you need a tonic, to give the body strength to throw off the illness that evidently threatens.

Take Cardui, when you are ill, with the ailments of your sex. Take Cardui as a tonic, to prevent illness, when you feel it coming.

Your druggist keeps it.

For the Children

The Starling an Unwelcome English Invader.

It may interest young bird lovers to know that the United States department of agriculture has forbidden the importation of the English starling. The reason for this is that it promises to become as great a pest as the English sparrow. It destroys vast numbers of larvae, but attacks fruits, causing great loss in orchards. It also eats the young and eggs of other birds. It was brought to this country in 1890, when sixty birds were released in Central park, New York city. Since then it has increased prodigiously. At a distance the starling resembles a blackbird, but on near approach its plumage has a greenish gloss, showing bronze reflections, while on the back are arrowhead spangles of brown. Its bill is bright yellow.—Outing.

Trick For Christmas.

Place an empty high hat on the table. Show a large handkerchief on both sides to convince your audience that there has been no preparation for this trick. Then from the folds of this same handkerchief the performer produces a walnut, which he lets drop into the hat. The handkerchief is now crumpled up and displayed again, and, lo, another nut is produced. Thus he goes on until a dozen nuts are dropped into the hat. Next turn the hat upside down, and again a surprise awaits the audience, as the hat is quite empty.

The secret of the trick depends on a nut suspended by a thread the color of the handkerchief attached to the edge. In this condition the nut is held in one hand with that corner of the handkerchief, and both sides of the handkerchief are shown and shaken out; then the nut is dropped behind the handkerchief unseen. Dropping one corner and holding the handkerchief between the tips of one finger and thumb, the performer first lifts the nut out of one of the folds in which it gets concealed; then he drops it into the hat, afterward picking up the handkerchief by two corners in such a manner that when it is lifted above the hat the nut is invisibly dragged behind it and the production repeated as often as desired.

Magic Writing.

In this game a confederate is necessary. The player states to the company after a few remarks on ancient sign language that he is able to read signs made with a stick on the floor and agrees to leave the room while the company decides upon some word or sentence.

The game is played as follows: It is agreed by the player and his confederate that one tap on the floor shall represent A, two taps E, three taps I, four taps O and five taps U and that the first letter of each remark the confederate makes shall be one of the consonants of the word or sentence decided upon by the company. The consonants must be taken in order. On the player's return, supposing the word chosen to be "March," his confederate would commence: "Many people think this game a deception" (initial letter M). One tap on the floor (A). "Really it is very simple" (initial letter R). "Coming to the end soon" (initial letter C). "Hope it has been quite clear" (initial letter H).

A few more signs are made so as not to finish too abruptly, and the player then states the word to be "March." If carefully conducted this game will interest an audience for a considerable time.

Where It Always Rains.

There is a group of islands to the south of New Zealand called the Sisters, or Seven Sisters, which are reputed to be subjected to a practically constant rainfall. The same may be said of the islands and mainland of Tierra del Fuego, saving for the difference that the rain often takes the form of sleet and snow. On a line running round the world from four degrees to eight degrees or nine degrees, there are patches over which rain seldom ceases to fall. This is called the "zone of constant precipitation," but at the same time there are several localities along it with very little rainfall.

Christmas Letter Enigma.

My first is in single, but not in double;
My second is in wrangle, but not in trouble;
My third is in knot, but not in tie;
My fourth is in oyster, but not in fry;
My fifth is the same as you have in my two;
My sixth is in church, but not in pew;
My seventh is in old, but not in new;
My eighth you have had in my five and my two;
My ninth is in hunter, but not in setter;
My tenth is the same as my very first letter;
My whole spells a name that children love dear,
And they hear it much talked of at this time of year.
Answer—Santa Claus.

Sing a Song of Stockings.

Sing a song of stockings,
Sing all full of toys—

SATURDAY NIGHT SERMONS

BY
REV. SAMUEL
W. PURVIS, D.D.

SOME ONE TO TAKE YOUR PART.

Text, "The Lord shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace."—Ex. xiv, 14.

Man's extremity is God's opportunity. A horde of Israelites were once fleeing from their taskmasters, terror-stricken, stampeding, with men shouting, women praying, children crying, cattle lowing, everywhere indescribable fear and confusion, before them an impassable sea, on either side insurmountable cliffs, to their rear Pharaoh's army. They could hear the roar of hoofs and the dull thunder of chariot wheels. Any first year West Pointer would have pronounced such a position a huge tactical blunder. The end was clear—sword, rapine, massacred men, despoiled women, captive children. At the darkest moment there's a frantic appeal to Moses and God. The answer is Godlike in its strength and assurance. "The Lord shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace."

Ever have your lawyer say: "Now, just leave this case with us. It is clear as daylight?" Ever have your physician say: "We'll have that child dancing on the sidewalk and hungry enough to eat nails in a week?" Then you went to your work with light heart. It wasn't many hours until the impossible happened. The sea was opened, and the Israelites passed over dry shod, while a cloud of protection dropped between them and their pursuers.

When You've Done Your Best.

Say, mother, ever get to the breaking point, the place where if you could just scream it would seem relief? Don't do it. The asylum's at the end of that road. There's something better. I know the pace is terrible, and yet you don't seem to get anything done. Washing baby faces, starting little feet off to school, laundering, mending, baking, scrubbing, sweeping and the thousand other duties that constitute a woman's day do not seem to count for much, but I declare unto you that you are doing more for the world than now is and that which is to come than many another woman who fancies she sways the rod of empire. But when your nerves are jangling, doing duty with a fearfully worn constitution, whooping cough in the house for six weeks, no rest, no sleep, other troubles you don't dare tell any one, when you cover the cage to keep the canary from singing, when you muffle the doorbell, when the wagon passing seems driving over your forehead—then you are at the Red Sea. There's one of two ways then, either the madhouse or God. There's nothing but the old fashioned religion of Jesus Christ that will carry a woman through the trials of home life.

At the End of Your String.

Of course the fellows on the Merri-mac were heroes; also the fellows carrying out the powder sacks among the sparks at Fortress Monroe. Death snapped right in their faces. But sometimes the easiest thing to do is to die. The big trick, then, is to have grit enough to live. Say, father, at the desk, at the bench, behind the counter, are you sometimes almost at the end of your string? Can't hardly make both ends meet? Fighting slander, financial losses, life plans slipping away, have to let a policy lapse and put a mortgage on the little home? Are there nights when you've had to take the cartridges from your revolver? "My, God, not that!" your better self said. Listen! There's some one who cares. You are now wedged in—the Red Sea ahead, the mountains on either side, the fiends of hell back of you. There's nothing left but God. Go right to him. I challenge you. Have you ever honestly tried? You see the thing is in his hand. Who sent the rain before Waterloo? If the atheist is right then hunt up your cartridges again. If Christ is right then you have a Father who can somehow make "all things work together for good to them that love the Lord."

Simply Let Go!

Don't pester your lawyer telling him of something you've read along the line of that case. Don't give your sick baby quiet doses of "something you've heard of" to aid your doctor. He knows quite a few things that you do not know. Trust him. God isn't in a tight place. You don't have to help him. Trust him. He guides the comets in their multimillion mile orbits. He balanced the leaf that fluttered just now. He has handled bigger tasks than yours. Trust him. Remember back home years ago, in the old pond, when the fellows were teaching you to float? Remember how you floundered, and flung, and grasped, and clutched, and struggled, with your mouth and nostrils full of the muddy pond water, even with the fellows keeping their hands under your sun bronzed body? Then Bill Jones—bless his freckled face, wonder where he is now—said: "Now, Jim, don't be so foolish. Just simply let go!" And before long you were floating like a lazy old porpoise in the sunshine. God sometimes leads a man into a wedge from which there seems no escape. Then when you are ready—not God—lo and behold, the way opens up wonderfully. Just seems a miracle happens. You'll never doubt again. Say, do you love that little curly head that you kissed good night awhile ago? Would you fight pretty hard for every hair in her little head? Well, "the Lord shall fight for you." Your love for that youngster is a rope of sand compared to the love of God for you.

Points For Mothers

Do not fail to keep strict watch on the baby's feet. If they are allowed to get cold the little one will be surely cross and run the risk of illness, as warm feet are a symptom of health.

During the winter months use woolen stockings, or if these shrink too much there is a mixture of silk and wool which wears much better, though more costly.

When floors are drafty it is advisable to line shoes with a flannel sole pasted on the inside of shoe. Cork or rubber soles are used for children who are of walking age. This does away with the need of incessant putting on of rubbers on days that are damp.

If the child seems fretful, before scolding or feeding feel the hands and feet. If they are cold and clammy the circulation is at fault. Put the hands first under hot water, then under cold and rub briskly. Make the little one rise upon his toes if old enough; if not, bathe with the hot and cold water and rub well.

A little hot water slipped slowly from the end of a spoon will often start the circulation and prevent baby from having a bad cold.

Rubbing feet with damp salt will not only tend to warm them, but will strengthen weak ankles. This treatment is often used to overcome bowed legs.

For a tiny baby it is well to warm the feet by means of a small hot water bottle incased in a flannel bag. This wards off many a nasty attack of colic.

Nursery Furnishings.

The furnishings consist of a low table and four kindergarten chairs placed where the light is best, two low, strong couches on which the children sleep at night, a large box for toys, the top of which makes a comfortable seat against the wall, and a cabinet in which are kept all kinds of kindergarten and school supplies—paints, crayons, clay, pencils, paper, peg board, scissors, etc. On the wall hangs a large blackboard, and in the two wide doorways hang a pair of tying rings and a rope swing. A punching bag, boxing gloves, Indian clubs, etc., are in evidence, and an electric railroad system finds all the room it wants to meander around the floor at the will of our small boy.

Here, then, they spend their days in healthy, constructive work and play, and here they sleep at night with windows on two sides wide open and little white nightcaps on their heads to protect them from the drafts. The result has been that numerous other children of the neighborhood think our flat about the most interesting place they know of, and so our little ones always have company and are happy and contented at home, where we love to have them; also they do not annoy us, because they have so many interesting things to do that they do not find the time to bother with big folks.

Given freedom, room, things, and especially companions of their own age, all children cease to be "trials" and become a blessing, as they should be.

To Give Baby.

The christening presents given to the infant of today differ much from those chosen for his grandfather or his father.

His grandfather probably had a Bible and prayer book and his father a silver mug, a knife and spoon in a case and possibly a silver egg cup or a napkin ring. But the new baby has a far wider range of offerings.

A sum of money may be invested in the infant's name or he has a banking account opened for him.

Another favorite gift is a piece of old silver expected to amass value as time goes on, and a third, if the recipient be a girl, is a chain and locket or pendant.

Other gifts are elaborate robes for the small wearer exquisitely embroidered, perambulator covers and a monogram clip for the child's minor belongings, such as his veils or bibs, representing the new initials of the little one intertwined in silver.

Plenty of Sleep For the Little Ones.

In these days of hygienic living it should not be necessary to say, "Put the children to bed early," but to those who are careless about a regular bedtime for their little ones I would like to say a word of warning. Many mothers would say, "My children always go to bed early," but these same mothers allow the little ones to "sit up" on the slightest pretext—the late arrival of a guest or a little dinner party—and then wonder why the children grow pale and nervous. Plenty of sleep is absolutely necessary, says Woman's Life, if the boys and girls are to be free from nervous diseases in later life. Frequently the school work is blamed for a child's ill health when in reality the only trouble is want of regular sleep.

A Gift For a Baby.

A charming gift for a new baby is a set of washed gold safety pins. These are not the small sets connected by a chain used to fasten the little frocks, but are ordinary safeties, specially gold washed for the purpose.

Take Care.

When the kidneys are effected, life is in danger. Read what Foley Kidney Pills have done for your neighbor. Mr. Emmet Jackson, Bloomington, Ind., says: "For the past few years I have worked over turpentine which I think is the cause of my kidney trouble. It started with an acute pain in the back over the kidneys. I felt all out of sorts and was annoyed by an irregularity of the kidneys accompanied by a scalding and burning sensation. There was a continual tenderness in the loins and a general feeling of weakness that unfitted me for my daily work. My eyes began to bother me and I had terrible headaches with dizzy spells. At this time I commenced taking Foley Kidney Pills and soon improved under the treatment. I kept it up steadily and now thanks to Foley Kidney Pills am well and strong again."

EDWARD A. REMY, P. M.

For That Dull Feeling After Eating.

I have used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for some time, and can testify that they have done me more good than any tablets I have ever used. My trouble was a heavy dull feeling after eating.—David Freeman, Kempt, Nova Scotia. These tablets strengthen the stomach and improve the digestion. They also regulate the liver and bowels. They are far superior to pills but cost no more. Get a free sample at Andrews-Schwenk Drug Company's drug store and see what a splendid medicine it is.

Proved He Was Wrong.

In December, 1825, Relief, the Russian nihilist litterateur, was condemned to death by hanging. The hangman's rope failed, and Relief was thrown to the ground. In these circumstances a man's life is often spared even in Russia, and the emperor was inclined to mercy. But he asked a question. "Did the condemned say anything on regaining consciousness?" "Sire," was the reply, "he said that in Russia nothing could be done properly, not even the twisting of a rope." "Prove him to the contrary," answered the Muscovite ruler. And it was done.

You Must Read This if You Want the Benefit.

J. W. Greer, Greenwood, La., suffered with a severe case of lumbago. "The pains were so intense I was forced to hypodermic injections for relief. These attacks started with a pain in the small of my back which gradually became fairly paralyzing. My attention was attracted to Foley's Kidney Remedy and I am glad to say after using this wonderful medicine I am no longer bothered in any way by my old enemy lumbago." A. J. Pellens.

Two Cities.

The most northern town on the globe is probably Hammerfest, latitude 79 degrees 39 minutes 14 seconds, off the northwest coast of Norway, a place of some 4,000 inhabitants. In Hammerfest the sun stays for two months above the horizon. The southernmost town in the world is Punta Arenas, on the strait of Magellan. Punta Arenas is a place of some 10,000 population.

A Simple Safeguard For Mothers.

Mrs. D. Gikeson, 326 Ingles Ave., Youngstown, Ohio, gained wisdom by experience. "My little girl had a severe cold and coughed almost continuously. My sister recommended Foley's Honey and Tar. The first dose I gave her relieved the inflammation in her throat and after using only one bottle her throat and lungs were entirely free from inflammation. Since then I always keep a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar in the house. Accept no substitutes. A. J. Pellens.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

Free to You and Every Sister Suffering from Woman's Ailments.

I am a woman.
I know woman's sufferings.
I have found the cure.
I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from woman's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—no, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourselves at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is safe and sure cure for Leucorrhoea or Whittish discharges, Ulceration, Displacement or falling of the Womb, Prolapse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors, or Growths; also pain in head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney, and bladder troubles where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete ten day's treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week or less than two cents a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your cure, entirely free in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it, and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhoea, free. Sickens and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in young Ladies, Plumpness and health at any results from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases, and make a woman well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten day's treatment is yours, also the book. Write today, as you may not see this offer again. Address: MRS. M. SUMMERS, Box H • Notre Dame, Ind., U. S. A Fashion Chat on Smart Costumes for Fall

222 West 39th Street, New York City

The combination of two or more materials is the high favorite of Dame Fashion just now. This is applied in the designs of smart up-to-date frocks for afternoon and informal evening wear, where the possibilities are so great that it gives scope for many original costumes. Satin plays a lively part in most of them, for it is made up with rough silks or soft silks, with figured foulard and with silk crepe. The veiling materials have wonderful charm even alone, but when they veil richly colored satin of a contrasting tone, or the beautiful Persian silks, the effect is remarkably handsome and is full of Oriental suggestion and color.

In some costumes the thin veiling or contrasting fabric ends about knee deep and the deep hem effect of plain material is below, but in other costumes the outer or thin fabric falls the entire length of the dress.

One-piece street dresses, or costumes of one material that have waist and skirt separate, are made of fine French serge, wool-back satin, which is a very handsome new material, silk and wool poplin, silk serge, broadcloth and smooth-finished worsteds of novelty design.

Black was never more stylish than it is this season, and the popular navy blue has assumed a slightly purplish tinge, white plum, raisin and prune are highly favored colors. Velvet of two tones, giving a changeable effect, is used for handsome costumes. Rich somber colors for street costumes have cashmere or satin trimmings on revers and cuffs.

An excellent street costume is shown in PICTORIAL REVIEW MODEL NO. 3662. This pattern comes in regulation length and closes in the back. It is worn over a gumpie and the sleeve caps are combined with the body. It is cut in sizes 32-34-36-38 and 40 inches bust measure, and requires 4 1/2 yards of 44 inch wide material for a medium size and 1 1/4 yard of contrasting material 36 inches wide to trim.

It is the object of dressmakers and fashion designers to make the feminine figure appear as slender as possible. With this in view the skirt falls straight from the hips; nor is this all. It is sometimes banded just below the knees and sometimes at the very edge with a deep fold or hem. Of course this necessitates the very narrow and close-fitting skirt so that the wearer is obliged to walk with very short steps. This has given rise to the name of the "hobble" skirt.

In many instances the skirt has the appearance of being no wider at the hem than the shoulders of the wearer. Sometimes the costume has a band of the dress material or trimming, or of fur below the hips which breaks the figure line and creates the effect of a short tunic. Skirt lengths that are designed for street wear are invariably in the short round length, that is, ankle length.

The two skirts depicted in this chat give a very good idea of what the skirts look like and PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3636 is an excellent style for a serge skirt. Its sizes are 22-24-26-28 and 30 inches waist measure. Pattern No. 3641 comes in the same sizes and is suitable for dressier wear.

These patterns, including cutting and construction guides, are 15 cents each number.

RIGHT THERE AT THE WALDORF

That Annual Dinner of the Indiana Society of New York Was Marked by a General Review of the Glories of the Old Home and of the Greatness of Her Men and the Beauty and Grace of Her Women.

New York, Dec. 3.—Tom Marshall, the governor of the state that is the home of an obsolete anti-cigarette law, sat at the guest table at the annual dinner of the Indiana Society last night at the Waldorf, smoking a coffin nail. Somebody said that the chief reason for the governor's visit to New York was to light a cork tip and get away with it. Despite the enforced absence of George Ade and Lew Shank, the Indiana Society turned out about 225 strong to listen to a lot of speeches about themselves and then take turns in making them. While they were working up to oratory, the orchestra played the waiters in and out of the grand ballroom where the banquet was held, to the strains of "On the Banks of the Wabash Far Away." Tunes like the "Suwanee River" and "Old Kentucky Home" were received with polite attention, but when it was time again for "The Wabash," ah, then came back mental visions of pussy willows aslant the brook and Booth Tarkington and Democratic majorities, and homey things like that.

Captain James B. Curtis, the president of the society, marshaled the literary lights and other Hoosier geniuses in turn and told them when it was time for them to get up and tell how great is Indiana and everything connected with it. Governor Marshall sat at the toastmaster's left as the guest of honor. Seated also at the speakers' table were Meredith Nicholson, Horace Hord, President Scott Bone of the Gridiron club, Washington, ex-Congressman Pence, President Parsons of the Indiana Normal school, President U. N. Bethell of the New York Telephone company, William DeMatos Hooper, and Joseph T. Fanning.

Congressman Sulzer was at one of the tables as a guest. Also among the 225 were Captain Jack Thompson of Indianapolis and Broadway; Carroll C. Rawlings and three generations of Rawlingses, all born in Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Austin Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Griswold Bourne; Captain F. Y. Hedley, and Dr. and Mrs. O'Donald.

Governor Marshall had it made plain to him that the greatest state in the Union is his own state, and the Hoosiers the greatest of our citizens, and Governor Marshall the greatest of Hoosiers. The governor told the diners about "The Hoosiers" also. If any of the speakers who had preceded him forgot anything of importance that should be recalled concerning Indiana the governor remembered and sprung it pleasantly.

Meredith Nicholson said he had come in the interest of 5,000 novelists from Indiana who want to protest that the Hoosier farmer and his wife and daughters have so far forgotten their former work of supplying Hoosier authors with blue jeans and sunbonnet local color that now it is troublesome to find any of the old stuff to write about in the home state. The hobble skirt already has reached Logansport. According to Mr. Nicholson one of the big products of the state now is former statesmen. Life Pence did not seem to feel offended.

Scott Bone spoke of "a Hoosier from Washington"; President Parsons talked on "Educational Indiana"; Mr. Bethell on the subject of "Where Lincoln Spent His Boyhood"; ex-Congressman Pence on "Virginia at Indiana Centennial in 1916."

John H. Nolan, who sings for the Gridironers in Washington, sang for the Hoosiers whenever the band quit "The Wabash" long enough to permit of a song being sung. And there was time always to work in from various parts of the hall the thrilling yells of Indiana University, Purdue, Wabash and all the other Indian seats of great learning that pave the state from the river north to the lake.

REMARKABLE ESCAPE

Two Men Fall Six Hundred Feet and Are Uninjured.

Paris, Dec. 3.—Two men fell 600 feet in an aeroplane and escaped serious injury. Lorian, the aviator, with M. Fay as a passenger, was just beginning a flight to Brussels and return when the accident occurred. The aeroplane was circling over the aviation field at Issy when the engine stopped and the machine plunged to the earth. While the aeroplane splintered to pieces the two men rose out of the wreckage practically uninjured.

Post Has a Bad Fall.

New Orleans, Dec. 3.—Augustus Post, one of the aviators in the meet here, was seriously injured when his machine was caught in a heavy gust of wind and swept to earth sixty feet below. He sustained bruises about the face and body and was knocked unconscious. He is under the care of a doctor.

ACCURATE PUBLICITY

Cardinal Gibbons Urges Corporations to Tell the Exact Truth.

Baltimore, Dec. 3.—Cardinal Gibbons, in an interview on the tendency of men in charge of some big business organizations to deal in absolute fairness and honesty with the public, declared that the country would benefit greatly if the proper Christian spirit it was manifested in the management of all business, great and small.

He believes in the accurate publicity of the affairs of corporations, he said. "The confidence of the people is necessary for real success," the cardinal said, "and the surest way to get this confidence is to deal honestly, to tell the exact truth, hide nothing and convince the people that they are getting a square deal."

JUDGE LANDIS FALLS
OUT WITH UNCLE SAMOpposed to Compromise in Revenue Fraud Case.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—In the case against Max Bronstein and Samuel Weiss, accused of being implicated with Simon Frindel in defrauding the government of $100,000 in internal revenue by the illicit operations of the Illinois Fruit Distilling company, Federal Judge Landis took occasion to object to what he understood would be the attitude of the government.

Frindel had been found guilty by a jury after a trial in which Bronstein and Weiss testified against him. Then Judge Landis said that he understood that the cases against the two latter were to be compromised on a cash basis. "If that is done I will turn Frindel loose too," he said. He further took occasion to criticize the action of the government in bringing Weiss and Bronstein in as witnesses, declaring that the case would have been just as strong without them.

Turning to Harry Parkin and Henry Freeman, the assistant district attorneys, Judge Landis said: "Has the government decided what is to be done in the matter of compromising this crime?"

"I have not heard," said Mr. Freeman, but I'll write."

"There are telegraph wires," suggested the court.

"But I prefer to write," said Freeman.

"Well, I'll not sentence this man until I hear from the last person regarding this compromise. If the secretary of the treasury accepts money from Weiss and Bronstein and turns them loose in consideration of getting some dirty money, I'll turn Frindel loose and they'll not get a dollar from him."

Judge Landis said that he would sentence Frindel next Tuesday, and ordered that he be kept in jail.

ALLEGED VIOLATIONS

Of the Anti-Trust Law Are Charged at Savannah.

Savannah, Dec. 3.—Alleging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, the grand jury for the United States district court has returned five indictments. The Merchants and Miners Transportation company was indicted three times, once as the sole offender, and in joint indictments with the Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard Air Line railways. Morris F. Miller and Harvie C. Miller were jointly indicted twice. The individuals were immediately taken into custody and placed under bonds of $25,000 each.

No Doubt About It, He Says.
Boston, Dec. 3.—Mrs. M. DeG. Verral, lecturer of Greek and Latin at Newnham College, England, has had a communication with the dead, according to Prof. J. H. Hyslop, secretary of the American Society of Psychical Research. "There is no question but that Mrs. Verral has had communication with the dead," declared the professor.

EDUCATION AIDED
BY RUBBERNECKSOne Columbia Student Made
$230 With Megaphone.

SELF HELPERS ARE NUMEROUS

More Than $166,000 Earned In One Year by Men and Women Who Are Working Their Way Through University—Some Census Enumerators and One Wine Tester In List.

More than $166,000 was earned by the students of Columbia university, New York city, in the last scholastic year, according to the report of P. C. H. Holter, secretary of the committee on employment for students, made public recently. The increase over student earnings of a year ago is more than $60,000, while the number of students registered with the committee was practically the same as in the preceding year.

All sorts of work was done by the students, from "lecturing on rubberneck wagons" and tending furnaces to making special political investigations and managing offices.

The graduate students reported the largest earnings, with a total of $49,288.08 in the college year and $11,479.47 in the summer vacation. Students in the law school came next, with $15,830.38 in the academic year and $10,486.12 in the summer.

The average earnings in the respective schools were in both winter and summer: College, $255.02; applied science, $325.25; medicine, $607.42; law, $326.32; graduate faculties, $784.20; fine arts, $578.40; Teachers' college, $684.90; Barnard college, $276.43.

Few Work Applicants Refused.

The committee received 1,093 requests from employers and filled all but eighty-eight vacancies in the year, the total earnings being $106,777.49. In the summer vacation one Barnard girl got $432 as an investigator, while one student in the graduate schools earned $852 as a preacher. Most of the students, however, sought out teaching and tutors' positions, more than $85,000 being earned in that way. The student who had charge of the "rubberneck wagon" made $230, while one in the science schools made $175 as a trolley car motorman. A third was mated on a river sloop and cleared $70 for his summer's work. One law school student had a particularly profitable summer, making $961. Another managed a fishing club, which gave him $300.

Three medical students put in their summers as camp assistants and earned $250 and living expenses, while another managed a lunch room for $280 and presumably his board also. Twelve graduate students made more than $300 apiece. Two Teachers' college girls were dressmakers and milliners at a profit to themselves of $419.50.

The Columbia college students went in mostly for bank work and at this averaged a trifle more than $100. One man worked in a fruit and vegetable store and earned $100. Stenographers and typewriters were also in demand.

Some Counted Population.

In the regular academic year one college student made as much as $850 as an investigator. Fifteen were census enumerators and made $50 each, while two were leaders of boys' clubs and made $234.50. Five worked as waiters for $300 and two as athletic directors for $240. One had a leaning toward telegraphy and earned $625, while another made $200. A student floorwalker earned $24 in a week's time, and an editor made $220. There were also lecturers, reference workers and salesmen.

One student in the medical school was friendly with a wine merchant and, being a good judge of wines, picked up $40 as a taster. Two other medical students got $508 as lecturers. Law students in the main went in for clerical work, although one cleared $90 as caretaker of a farm and another $75 as a playground director. One was employed as a regular inspector in the customs service and made $800, while one made $140 as a musician.

Nineteen women earned more than $200 apiece in the academic year, and six made $50 doing miscellaneous work. One earned as much as $400.

JURORS WEPT WHEN
WOMAN TOLD STORYMrs. Menlo Moore Creates Sensation in Court.

Vincennes, Ind., Dec. 3.—On the witness stand in the trial of her husband for the murder of Charles E. Gibson, millionaire oil operator, Mrs. Menlo Moore sobbed out the story that she said she told her husband, which caused her husband to kill Gibson. She told how she first met Gibson. She asserted he induced her to accompany him to a barn on pretense of trapping her husband with another woman.

"When I entered the barn," she testified, "and turned to see why there was no light there, Gibson having assured me there would be a light, he grabbed me around the waist with his left arm and held me tight, and as I struggled to free myself he threw his right hand to my throat and as I struggled he pressed harder until I was so weak that my eyes seemed to bulge from my head and I could not get my breath, and I was so weak I could not resist him any longer."

"That was all I told my husband then. I was afraid to go on with the story on account of the terrible effect it was having on him. He got up and paced the floor and ran his hands through his hair and said, 'My God, my God, my little girl!' He became so frantic I telephoned father and asked him to bring mother immediately. He came with my mother and my husband was quieted."

When asked why she had not told her husband all, the witness declared she was afraid of a nervous breakdown, as he was then under the care of a specialist. The jurors 'sat as if spell-bound, and tears rolled down the cheeks of several of them. Arnold J. Padgett, the father of Mrs. Moore, cried as a child. The prisoner collapsed, buried his face in his arms and for almost an hour never raised his head.

Tomato Pulp Seized.

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 3.—United States Pure Food Inspector Barnshaw of Washington and United States Deputy Marshal Williams swooped down upon the Flaccus Preserving company's plant and seized 100 barrels of tomato pulp. This large amount is alleged to be rotten, putrid and unfit. The pulp was all stored in the plant, and it is said it was the intention of the company to use it in the making of preserves and seasonings.

HIS CHRISTMAS PRESENT

By MARK WHITEMORE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Henry Trayne and his wife, Laura, had been married ten years and had not been blessed with children. Henry was thirty-eight, and Laura was thirty-two. They had reached the age where childless married people begin to try to supply the deficiency by pets.

Henry Trayne, who was a professional chemist and mining engineer, was offered every inducement to go to the Pacific coast and direct the operations of a mine. Besides his salary, he was offered some stock of the company. For a long time he declined, not caring to break up his home on an uncertainty—for the mine might prove worthless—or to leave his wife while the experiment was being made, but "the wolf" was prowling about the door, and at last the couple made up their minds to bear the separation.

Henry was obliged to make a preliminary trip to a distant city where the capitalists who were to employ him lived in order to talk matters over and become posted as to his work. During this absence, which lasted a month, Laura had a taste of what she was to endure during the longer separation. When her husband returned the couple were enraptured at the reunion, being like a young couple in their honeymoon, except that the longer separation stared them in the face.

When the March winds were blowing Henry bade his wife a sorrowful adieu and went to the field of his operations. During the first month of absence Laura wrote him every day "Chimny" (the dog), "dear boy, misses you very much. The day you left he whined and fretted and ran about pining for his dear papa. 'Toddle' (the parrot) said yesterday, 'Oh, Henry, how can I live without you? I wonder if the dear girl got that from me.'"

Had the letters fallen into the hands of strangers they would have supposed the writer to be referring to beloved children. However, after a few weeks—possibly Laura was becoming more accustomed to her husband's absence and did not need to lavish so much love on Chimny and Toddle—the letters assumed a more practical tone. Laura hoped the venture would be successful. They were getting on toward old age and nothing laid up. It would be nice if in addition to Henry's salary the shares that had been given him would become valuable. Then they would not have to worry about the future. In one of her letters she asked Henry if there were good schools in the district where the mines were located. Henry wrote back that he hadn't taken any interest in the schools, for if they made the place a permanent home, not having any children of their own, it wouldn't make any difference. To which Laura replied that she thought Toddle could be taught to read, and she wouldn't like to take her where such a thing would be impossible if desired. Henry, who had got used to being separated from his pets, thought this absurd.

Six months passed, and no immediate prospect of Henry's getting home. October came, and there was a rich strike in the mine. The success of the enterprise was secured, but still Henry could not get away. In December he left everything to go home and spend Christmas with his wife and Chimny and Toddle.

He arrived on Christmas morning. As he ran up the steps of his house he noticed an auto standing before the door and in the hall met the family physician, who was giving some instructions to a trained nurse. Henry, in terror, begged to be informed as to the reason for their being there.

"The crisis is passed," said the doctor. "Don't worry. Nurse, go up and prepare Mrs. Trayne to meet her husband. We don't want to startle her."

The nurse went upstairs and in a few minutes called out that Mr. Trayne might come up. Henry was so anxious that he had not responded to Chimny's greetings and when the dog got in his way as he was hurrying upstairs gave him a push that sent him away yelping. When the eager husband reached his wife's door he was astonished to see a placard on it bearing the words:

"Merry Christmas from Harry."

"Too anxious to give way to wonder as to what it meant, he opened the door softly and entered the room. There lay Laura, with the tiniest bit of a baby on her arm, and the mother had a happy smile of welcome on her face.

"A Christmas present for you, Henry!" said Laura.

The nurse, who took a position to see the husband's face at the moment of his surprise, told the doctor that "he looked as if he had had a pitcher of joy poured over him." He stood for a moment enraptured at what he saw, then took his wife and their child in one embrace.

"Now I know," he said, "why you were inquiring about the schools and were giving me that nonsense about teaching Toddle to read. But why didn't you let me know?"

"I wanted to surprise you. And when I learned that you were to come at this time I hoped my Christmas gift would be here ready for you. The doctor delivered it without wrapper or address this morning at 6 o'clock."

And so it was that Chimny and Toddle were relegated to a very inferior position to make way for the rising son of the household. Toddle, who was bright enough to deserve a better fate, says:

"Shut up! You'll wake the baby!"

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. ANTI-FOOTBALL ARGUMENTS OF 1583 AND 1910 SIMILAR.

Ancient Sport Described as Full of "Murdering Devices."

Some controversialists who are opposed to the game of football will be interested to know the views of Philip Stubbs. Mr. Stubbs was an Englishman who wrote a book entitled, "Anatomie of Abuses Current in Ye Realm of England." The book was published in 1583, and Mr. Stubbs devoted one whole chapter to the game of football.

What he said over 300 years ago is practically almost word for word what the opponents of the game are saying today. Listen to Mr. Stubbs as he tells of football in the sixteenth century:

"Now who is so grossly blinde that seeth not that these aforesaid exercises not onely withdrawe us from godlines and virtue, but also harle and allure us to wickedness and sins. For as concerning football playing, I protest unto you that it may be rather called a friendly kinde of fyghte than a play or recreation, bloodie and murdering practice than a felowlie sport or pastime. Dooth not everyone lye in w^hite for his adversarie, seeking to overthrow and piche him on his nose, tho' it be on hard stones or ditch or dale or valley or hill or whatsoever place it be he careth not so he have him downe? And he that can serve the most in this fashion, he is counted the only fellow and who but he? * * * so that by this means sometimes their necks are broken, sometimes their backs, sometimes their legs, sometimes their armes.

"Sometimes their noses gush with blood, sometimes their eyes start out and sometimes hurt in one place and sometimes in another, but whosoever scapeth away the best goeth not scot free, but is either sore, wounded, crasied or bruised so as he dieth of it or else scapeth very hardlie; and no mervail, for they have sleights to meet one betwixt two, to dash him against the heart with their elbows, to butt him under the short ribbes with their gripped fists and with their knees to catch him on the legs and piche him on the necke, with a hundred such murdering devices.

"And hereof groweth envy, rancour and malice, and sometimes brawling, murder, homicide and great effusion of blood as daily experience teacheth."

NEW PASSION PLAY PLANNED

Protestants to Give Exhibition in Saxe-Weimar.

"The Life of Jesus," a new Passion play under Protestant auspices, will be given for the first time next summer at Eisenach, Saxe-Weimar. Eisenach is known as the "cradle of the reformation" since it was at the famous Wartburg castle there that Luther in 1521 translated the Bible.

The new Passion play will be performed by well known actors recruited from the best stages in Europe. It will be produced eight times during the summer of 1911 and often if it proves attractive. The Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar and the Duke of Meiningen (the latter of whom is an expert stage manager), as well as celebrities of international reputation in the worlds of art and religion, have assured the new enterprise of their support, while sufficient capital has already been subscribed to guarantee its financial stability.

The new version of the life of Jesus is the work of Herr Weiser, the stage manager of the Grand Ducal Court theater at Weimar, the famous little playhouse where Goethe's and Schiller's works first saw the light.

SAUSAGE MACHINE FOR ARMY.

Only Austrian Invention Automatically Makes Cartridges.

That wonderful machine into which pigs walked at one end and from which sausages were produced at the other has almost become a reality. An Austrian army captain named Von Henrique has invented a machine which can turn out 150,000 ball cartridges in ten hours by what is described as an absurdly simple process.

Powder cases and bullets are dropped into receptacles and in a very short time reappear as cartridges ready for use. The machine distinguishes between good and bad material, all defective material being discarded.

The Austrian war department has ordered ten machines to be constructed and with them will be in a position to manufacture 1,500,000 cartridges daily with twenty-five workmen. The German military authorities are following the matter with close attention.

MARCONI STUDIES FLYING.

Plans Aeroplane to Rise Directly From the Ground.

Marconi is interesting himself in aviation and is endeavoring to solve two problems—the construction of an aeroplane which will rise directly from any spot and the adaptation of wireless telegraphy to flying machines.

In an interview Mr. Marconi intimated that he might fly himself in connection with his new experiments.

Nov. 1910,

Dear Friend:

I don't see how they make macaroni. I don't see how they get the hole in it. The doctor says this is a good thing because it wont lump in your stomach.

And my, how good macaroni is with a little cheese sprinkled over it, and they are cheap to.

10cts. a pound for macaroni, and 25cts. a pound for nice fresh cheese.

Your Friend,
JACOB.

P. S. You can always get fresh macaroni and cheese at
